Alma Mater

Sweet by thy memory, High School of ours;
Fair be thy destiny, fadeless thy flowers;
Hearts that have loved thee have won in life's fight;
Names that we honor, thy standard holds bright.

Our Alma Mater dear, to thee we sing;
May all thy future years new honors bring;
May friends thy banners raise, thy foes grow less;
All love and praise to our old E. H. S.

Prologue

Thou hast loosed an Act upon the world and as a stone thrown into a pool, so spread the consequences thou canst not tell how far.

Rudyard Kipling

Each of us has loosed his acts upon the world of East High School. The impact of these acts is felt by those around us; like ripples in a pool they flow outward and intermingle with others. As individuals we have made unique contributions. Combined, they have subtly but profoundly influenced the lives of everyone at East High. This book records these actions as it portrays the world we are about to leave.

To Miss Ann Bassett . . .

whose insight and skill in advising have exemplified the highest standards of her profession, whose many influences have transformed the lives of hundreds, whose direct words and actions have shown us what was right, whose warm personality has made countless friends,

whose life has been dedicated to young people,

we gratefully dedicate this Orient.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

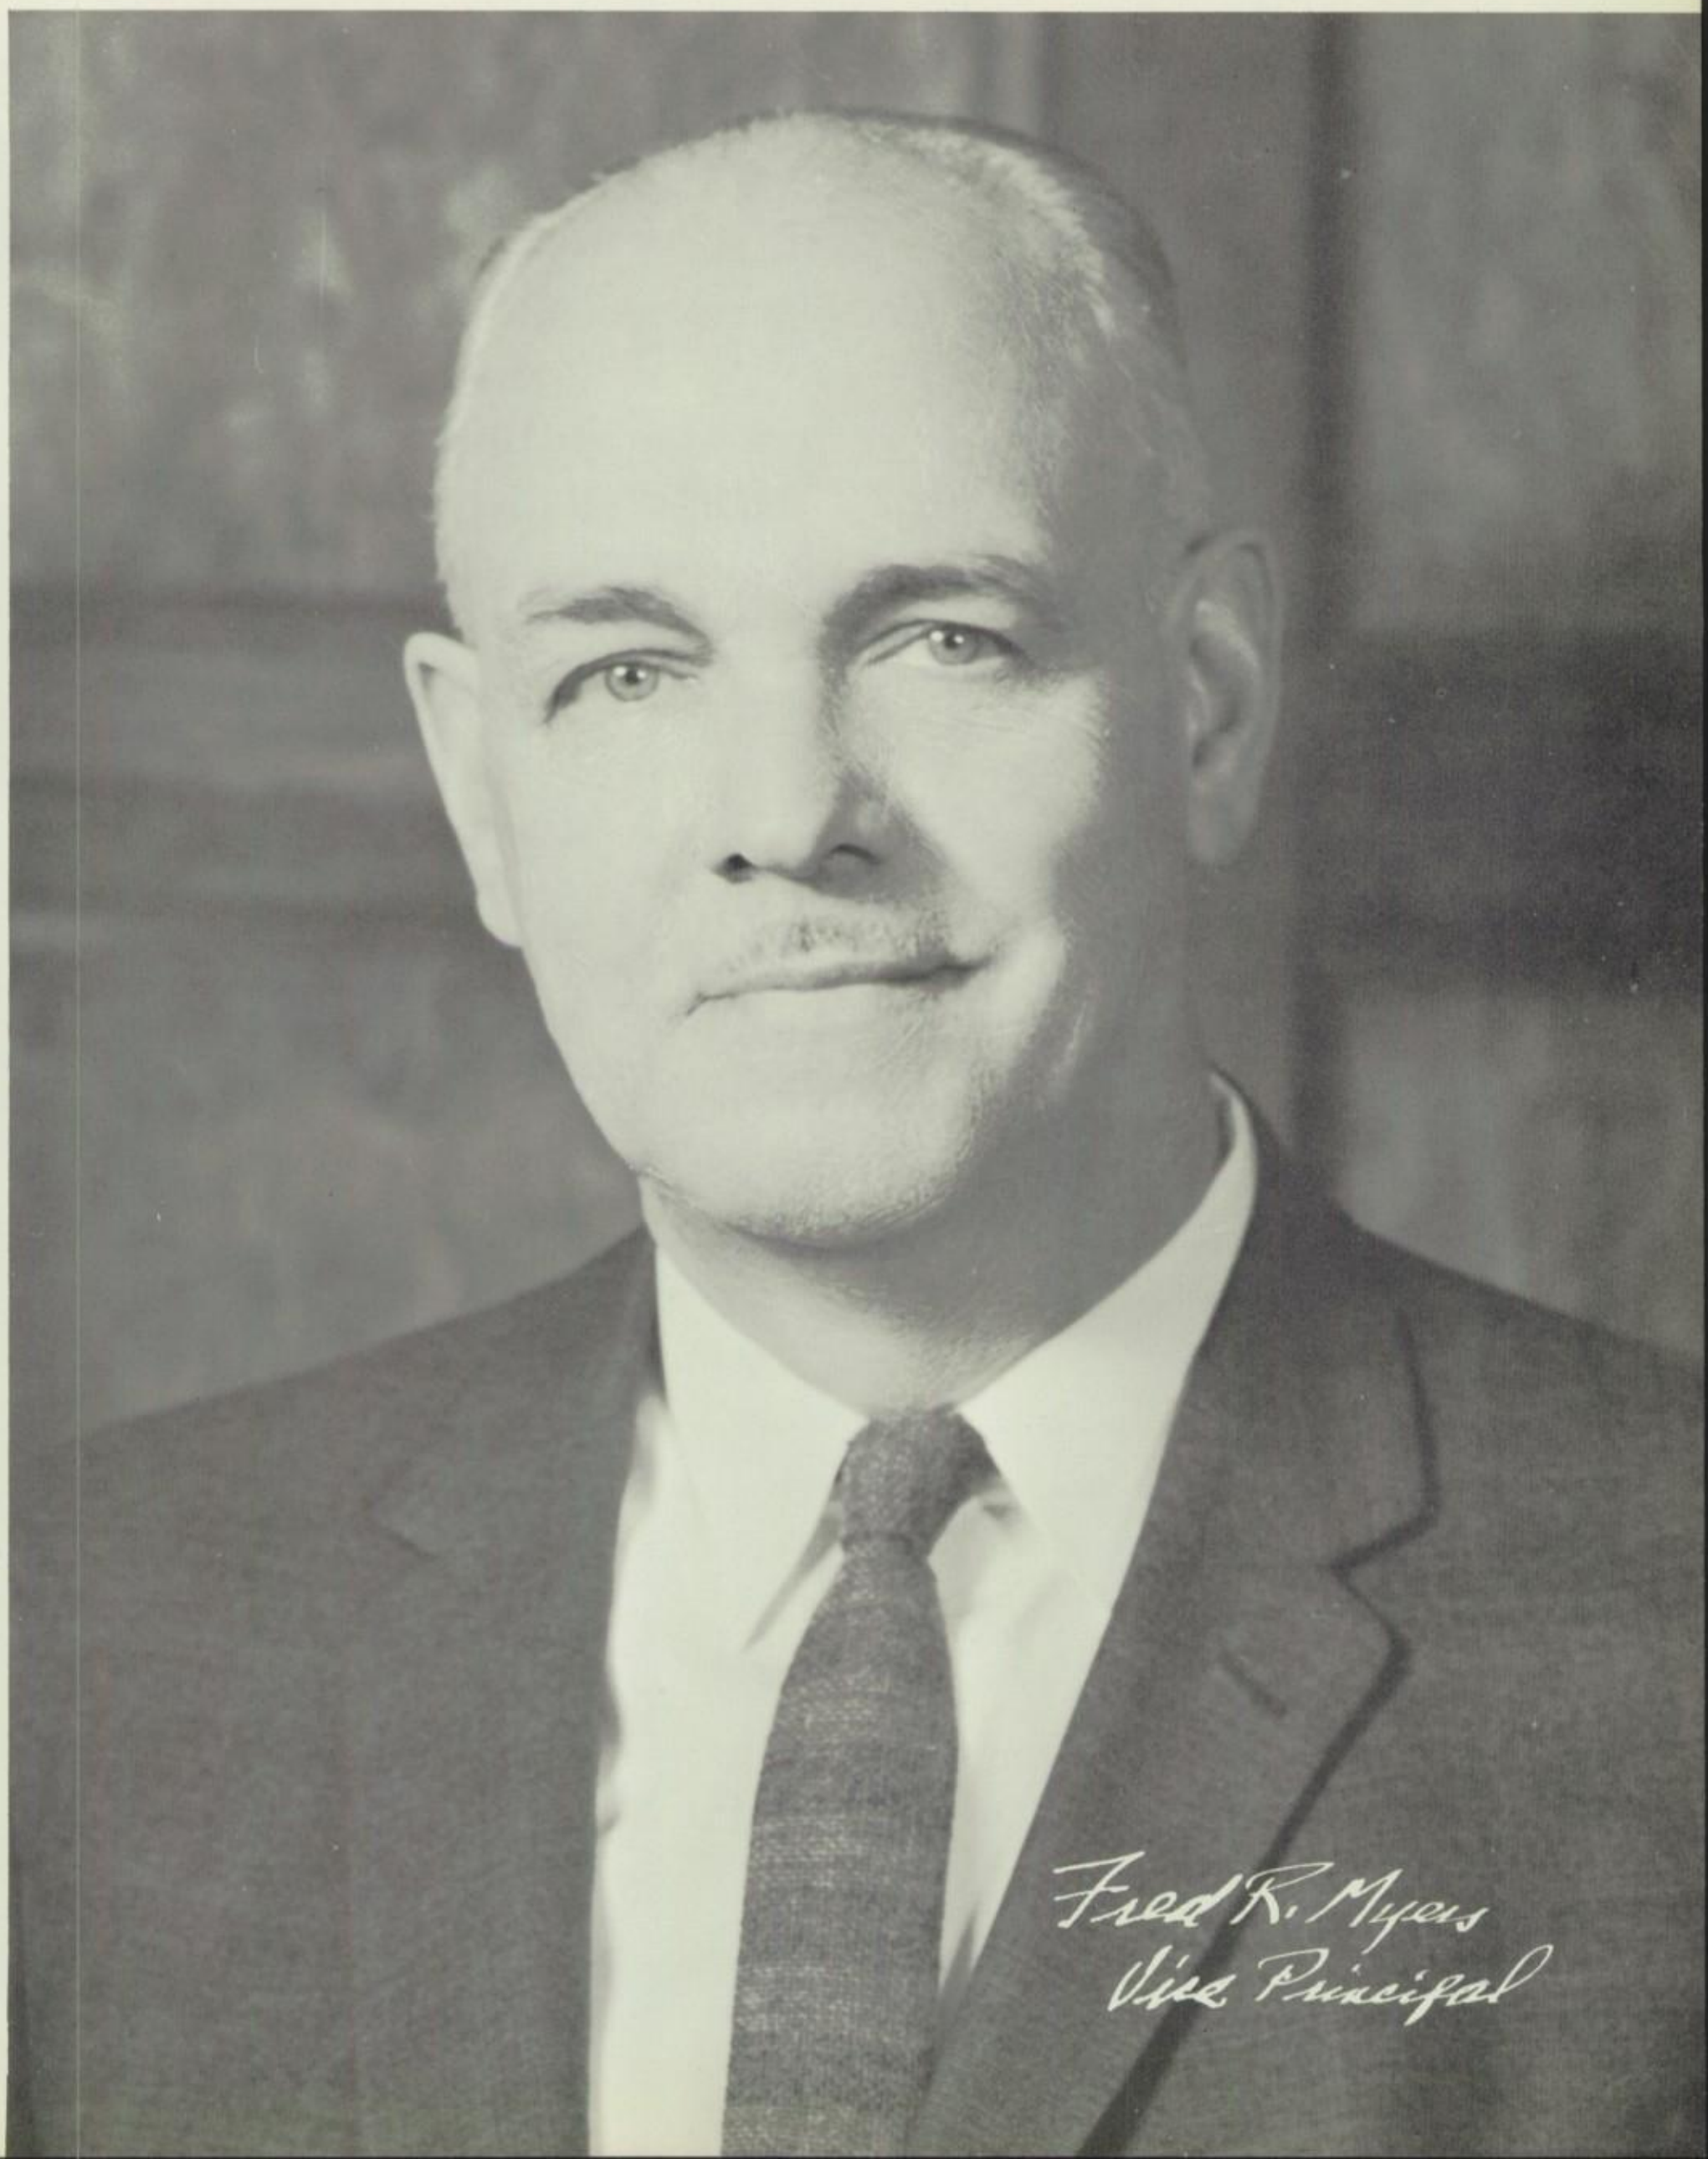
Principal



Fred R. Myers
Vice Principal

Many Jobs — One Goal

Our faculty is composed of men and women proficient in some field of learning or in some skill who want to share their knowledge with others. Their backgrounds and fields of study vary, but all hope to provide their students with a sound education which will enable each one to take his place as a responsible part of our society.

Working with the teachers are specialists who have more personal contacts with the students. The counselors help us to select courses that fit our needs and abilities and that will prepare us for college or for a career after graduation. The deans serve as the disciplinary force of the school, but to many they are confidants who have helped solve innumerable problems. The dental hygienist, the sight saver, the psychologist, the speech therapist, and the nurse are all concerned with maintaining our health. The custodial and office staffs keep East High orderly and efficient, while the cafeteria staff supplies us daily with nutritional food.

Our principal, Mr. Clark, and our vice principal, Mr. Meyers, are responsible for co-ordinating all the facets of East High learning and life. Through co-ordination of the faculty and staffs they offer us the education necessary for success in our modern world, by maintaining an appropriate climate for academic and extra-curricular activity and by utilizing with the greatest possible efficiency the many physical advantages of our school.

We at East High are grateful to these people. Through their efforts we have received our educations, and their influences, like ripples on the water, will continue to spread throughout our lives.

SENIORS

Senior History

When the new East High building opened in September of 1959 it was invaded by swarms of excited eighth graders. As a rule, they were pretty rowdy, overawed by the immensity of the school and disdained by upperclassmen. But by the time the construction dust had settled and the last workman had left, these upstarts had organized themselves into the class of 1964. 1964 sounded pretty far off then, but as organization grew and activities got rolling the time began to fly.

Miss Round and Mr. Hunter assumed the roles of our class advisors and helped us elect our freshman officers. They were Loren Nowak, President; Henry Cooper, Vice President; Carol Hughes, Secretary; Sue Haber, Treasurer; and Joan Stilwell, Social Chairman. Together they led the class in producing a highly successful Freshman Dance, "Three Coins in a Fountain."

In our Sophomore year Sidney Aroesty assumed the office of President with Phyllis Morrison, Vice President; Pat Gallagher, Secretary; Eleanor Addante, Treasurer; and Sue Harber, Social Chairman, as colleagues. With an eye to the future they began the collecting of class dues and made arrangements for class rings. The year went quickly, with the traditional Carnival and turnabout dance, "Cupid's Caper," highlighting all-school events. The main class function was the Sophomore Dance, "Hawaiian Holiday."

Class government for our junior year was led by Loftus Carson as President; Jacquie VanAs, Vice President; Barb Berman, Secretary; Claire Howell, Social Chairman; and Pete Taillie, Treasurer. A highly profitable Junior Record Hop set a new precedent. The S.G.A.-sponsord record hop featuring the "Dukes" was also a great sensation, and, of course, the Junior Prom, "Tcartsba," was the main event of the year.

For our senior year the tradition was broken; Sharon Wolf became the first girl president of our class. Gary Ball was Vice President; Judy Volo, Secretary; Jan Kelly, Treasurer; and Joan Stilwell, Social Chairman. After the success of our Junior Record Hop, two senior hops were held. The class did well with the Senior Play, Dino, and collected a good deal of revenue from the popular candy sale. The mid-year Carnival had a colorful international theme: "A Night of Nations." Then, with the Senior Banquet and Senior Ball, our year drew quickly to a close. The four years were gone and there, staring us in the face, was 1964 — the graduation date that had seemed so distant not long ago.

IN MEMORIAM

We dedicate this page to the memory of Doreen and Jim, who were members of the Class of 1964. We were all shocked by the deaths of our classmates, and feel a deep sense of loss. They are missed at East High, where they were a part of the daily bustle and routine. As our senior year comes to a close, we feel their absence more keenly, knowing they would have enjoyed sharing the excitement of the final activities and plans for the future.

For several weeks countless bulletins flashed the news, "Dino is coming! Dino is coming!" Dino, a hot-headed delinquent, made his one-night appearance at East last December 13.

Dino, a play examining the dilemma of a teenager at odds with his society and struggling for self understanding, was produced through the efforts of many people. Foremost among them was the director, Mr. Edwin Dolan, whose patient effort and dramatic know-how were the basis of Dino's success. Joe Kessler, playing Dino, and Janice Aspridy, as Shirley, gave delightful performances. Larry Torrella, Joan Stilwell and Ginny Catan were also exceptionally good. In addition, many supporting actors, stagehands, and committeemen contributed the time and enthusiasm necessary to making our Senior Play. All who saw Dino appreciated their fine accomplishment and will remember it as a highlight of their school years.

Cast prepares for debut.

Last minute instructions from director Dolan.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

In Acknowledgment

The 1964 Orient staff has felt it proper to expand the Academic Section and to create from it a new Special Recognition section, in order to acknowledge appropriately the varied types of accomplishment found in East High.

We recognize those areas of school life which are outstanding: fine scholarship, new and progressive teaching methods, participation in honorary extra-curricular programs, and other assets to our school. Excellence in academic pursuit, cultural performance, and educational progress alike merit recognition. We salute, for example, the Advanced Placement program, our Teenage Diplomats, Closed Circuit T. V., and the Inter-High Choir. These contributions should not pass unnoticed or unappreciated. We commend the people involved for their efforts. It is hoped that through this section they will be inspired to continued accomplishment and that others will look upon their achievements as worthy to be equalled or excelled.

Foreign Diplomats

Kay Clements spent the summer in Mexico City, at the home of Maria Lus Islas Arreola. "Mary Lou," who lived at Kay's home for the months of December and January, made the following comment about her stay.

When I left my country, I came here with the idea of seeing for the first time a white Christmas, and let me tell you that I found it marvelous. As I love the snow and winter sports, I'm skating very often here, and I'm trying my best to learn how. I'm really enjoying myself.

One remarkable difference I found between the two countries is that here almost everything is done by machines that at home is done by maids; for instance, washing dishes. Another difference I found was the American system in the schools of having air raid drills. The first time I experienced one of these I was working at my typewriter and suddenly everyone jumped up and left the room. When standing in the halls they were forbidden to talk to me, and I became quite frightened as I thought there was going to be an earthquake! I like very much the way of teaching in American schools. Here the teachers are less formal, and the student is encouraged to think for himself.

The chance that I had to come here and learn the American customs and study in the schools has greatly helped me in preparing for my future work as a bi-lingual secretary. I am very glad to have had the opportunity of knowing a country other than my own.

Louis C. Hinman

Louis Hinman represented East High as part of the American Field Service Americans Abroad program.

Last summer I spent two months in the Swiss city of Lausanne. The French-Swiss family with which I stayed accepted me as a part of their family, and not as a tourist. This was very gratifying to me; it enabled me to view Swiss culture in a way not possible under any other conditions. In addition, of course, I had the time of my life.

I met many interesting people during my stay and no two were alike; you can't describe the Swiss people as a type. I had many long and heated arguments with my Swiss brother about politics and racial conflicts in America. Aside from that, we went to a lot of parties, most of which lasted all night, and visited many places of interest around the city. Once, I even found myself bottling wine, and not drinking it for a change, in one of the many vineyards that cover the slopes on the shores of Lake Geneva.

I saw many things which are alien to our culture. I found the Swiss middle class easy-going and relaxed. I found the university intellectuals, of which group my Swiss brother was a member, free-thinking and liberal, though occasionally inclined toward cynicism. I found radically different attitudes toward such things as boy-girl relationships and drinking.

Most important I found that I could live with these people, despite the differences in custom and tradition of our respective countries.

Conrad Koeneke, David Weber

Conrad Koeneke, our Venezuelan exchange student, lived with David Weber. He wrote the following about his stay here.

Since the day I knew that I was going to come to Rochester, I began to wonder what my American school was going to be like. I never dreamed of the immensity and comfort of East High and its fine internal organization.

Though my first days of school were hard for me (understanding the teachers as well as trying to find the right rooms), my adjustment was very fast. I am very thankful to all the boys and girls who helped me to shorten this period.

While the first few weeks went on, my desire to see snow became greater. I remember what my friends told me about snow: "Wait until it comes; you will change your mind." Yes, I have shoveled. I have fallen several times, but I have had fun. Ice skating and tobogganning have become my favorite sports. I am really enjoying my winter, though sometimes I would like to play soccer or softball.

I also have seen and felt the high spirit of sports in East High. I am very impressed to see the quality of your players and the extraordinary coordination when they play together.

In general, I have had many and agreeable experiences which I will hardly forget.

Experiences

Joo-Ee Ong, our Teenage Diplomat from Malaysia, has spent the year living with her American "Sister," Katy Riker, and attending East High. She tells of some of the things she has experienced in the following article.

When I first heard the news, six months ago, that I was coming to the United States, I just couldn't contain myself. I was embarking on a great adventure. Now, after being in Rochester for more than four months, I am still as excited as I first was when I landed. Everything is exciting, but more meaningful to me now, because I have met so many new people.

I tell myself that I am going to make good use of this year. It is fun to be always in the public eye, but it has its disadvantages. I have to be more careful in whatever I am doing and saying.

During the past few months I have learned to be independent. I have to make most decisions for myself. For example, three days after I arrived in Rochester, I was choosing the school subjects I would take this year.

Being away from home has taught me a good lesson. When you are far from home you really appreciate your family, relatives and friends. You appreciate your country and its flag. Every day I scan the newspapers for news of home, and I could never tell you how I feel when I see the flag somewhere.

Being a Teenage Diplomat is a very rewarding and wonderful experience. I have learned many things from my new family and friends. I can see things for myself now, which I had previously seen through other people's eyes.

Gail Nichols

Gail Nichols was the first student from East High to go abroad for a full year under American Field Service program, which brings exchange students to East every year. Although she graduated in June, 1963, in order to complete high school before going abroad, we seniors still consider her part of the Class of '64. An honors student, a fine athlete, and a well-liked person, she was admired by all who knew her. Gail wrote the following letter to the students of East, in addition to several letters printed in the Clarion.

Kassel, Germany

Dear East High,

Under the auspices of the Rochester Association of Teenage Diplomats and the American Field Service, I am spending this school year in Kassel, Germany. Of course being a member of a German family, attending a German school, and learning German are my primary aims. I have become acquainted with three generations of Germans as a part of the Giesencke family. I have, however, been able to meet and live with different types of people in various parts of Germany.

My German school is a private Catholic girls' school of 600 students. My class remains together for all of our subjects. Every student must take English and, after the freshman year, they may choose between French and Latin. My fondest memories of the Engelsburg School are the number of subjects (13), the small amount of homework, the few tests, and the two fifteen minute pauses when we had to go outdoors.

Aside from trips with the AFS and my family, I have visited the East-West German border, the German-Czech border, and Italy with groups from my school.

Every month was eventful, especially December 1963. During the first week of the month, all the AFS students in Germany gathered in Berlin to become acquainted with the German problem and to compare our experiences in Germany. It is hard to comprehend the German feelings about their divided country without actually seeing the heart of the problem and talking with people in Berlin.

December is the month of Christmas, and the celebrations, although more sincere and less colorful than in the United States, last the whole month. The Christmas trees with real candles and the joy on people's faces when they open an American Christmas gift are my most happy remembrances of my German Weihnachten.

Yours truly,
Gail Nichols

Progressive Teaching

Our East High school building is the outward expression of its inner progressive spirit; since its construction many new teaching methods have been developed to fulfill the needs of its student body. These include the Honors and Advanced Placement programs, Special Education classes, Co-operative Training and the Closed Circuit Television system.

By making use of accelerated course material and progressive methods such as team teaching, the Honors program enables capable students to explore new aspects of their subjects and challenges them to deeper understanding. The Advanced Placement program, an outgrowth of the Honors Program, provides college level study for qualified students in Chemistry, Calculus, History, and English. For others, Special Education classes of the School Work Program provide training in skills that will prepare them for work after graduation. Comparable in purpose are the Co-operative Office Training and Retailing programs, which combine classroom work with on-the-job training.

Today much emphasis is placed on the ability to speak and understand a foreign language. At East High, modern language laboratories are the basis of this intensive oral study.

We can be especially proud of our unique Closed Circuit Television system, directed by Mr. Arthur Cowdery, which went into full operation last September. Its distinct features, which include the ability to take close-up shots, to make super imposures, and to reach several classes at once, promise it success and a prominent place among East High's other educational innovations.

The Scope of Success

This year, as in years past, several East High seniors have earned outstanding scholastic records and merit recognition for their accomplishment. The ten seniors on the following page rank highest in the Class of 1964. On last spring's National Merit Scholarship Exam, our class did exceptionally well. Two students became finalists and nine won Letters of Commendation. The Harvard Book Award is presented to a boy in the junior class who has distinguished himself in academic excellence as well as in enthusiasm for extra-curricular activity. Comparable in standards is the Wolgast Chapter of the National Honor Society, which elects its members on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship, and service.

East High school takes part in a number of community-wide programs: the Rochester Association for the United Nations, the Empire Girls' and Boys' State, and the University of Rochester's Wide Horizons program. Participating students are chosen to represent East High by virtue of their leadership qualities and their interest in community affairs. They meet with other students to discuss contemporary problems, to gain insight into subjects not taught in high school, and to increase their responsibility as citizens.

In every Rochester high school there are groups of students possessing special talents. Among them are members of the Inter-High Choir and the Inter-High Band and Orchestra. These fine young musicians demonstrate their ability in concerts and special performances. The Orient wishes to complement them on their contribution to their schools and to the community by recognizing their cultural achievement along with the traditional academic ones.

SPORTS

Athletes in Action

At the end of each school year, awards and trophies are given to outstanding athletes of East High's sports program. This program includes teams of many kinds: interscholastic and intramural, varsity and junior varsity, boys' and girls'. It satisfies the athletic interests of everyone at East. The sports program is the largest extracurricular activity and the most successful in conjuring up that magical something known as school spirit.

There is nothing magical, however, about winning a place on any of the teams pictured on the following pages. The athletes have earned them through rigorous training, constant practice, and the desire to contribute their talents toward team success. Nor is it magic that the Orientals were city champions in soccer, wrestling, and swimming, and won a Section 5 soccer crown and individual sectional championships in wrestling and swimming.

The glory that victory brings the teams and the school is exciting and important. But above victory and defeat, training in self-discipline, responsibility, and leadership are the greater rewards of a sports program. These will remain valuable long after the records are broken and scores forgotten.

ACTIVITIES

A Salute to

Student Government is one of the most important school activities. The Student Government Association, with its cabinet and elected representatives, and the four class councils better East High and have a lasting influence on its students.

These governments were created to coordinate and lead student life. The S. G. A. has organized clubs, led school-wide improvement campaigns, and sponsored dances and other social events. Class organizations work to provide an enjoyable social calendar while augmenting their treasuries for a climactic senior year.

In student governments we have a testing ground for young leaders. Student councils provide them with the opportunity to practice vital democratic procedures while gaining an understanding of representative responsibility. They learn to formulate and express their own ideas and have the opportunity to see them carried out. In short, student government provides our democratic society with a valuable training program for skilled and capable leaders of the future.

CLARION EDITOR AND ADVISOR—Louis Hinman, Mr. Mann.

CLARION EDITORS: Sue Denny, Don Canfield, Johanna Hellwitz, Art Gallancy, Gene Duffy, Dick Frye, Bill Harster, Ann Beeler, Louis Hinman.

Few students are aware of the effort expended in publishing a Clarion. The editors begin work by assigning articles and editorials to their reporters, who must submit them before a given deadline. Next the articles are edited, typed and proofed. The editors cut or add material to exactly fill a page, write headlines, and make a "pastedown" to clarify for the printers where each article should be placed. The "pastedown" and typed copy are sent to Oxford Press. About a week later, galleys (proofs) of each page come back to the Clarion editors, who check them for typographical errors. They are returned to the printers, who deliver the 1200 to 1500 copies early the next morning for distribution.

There are many valid reasons for publishing the Clarion. Its staff gains valuable experience in journalism. It familiarizes students with the social and political life of the school and provides them with an opportunity to express their opinions on important issues. Because its articles are taken from all aspects of student life, the Clarion unites the student body and serves as a calendar for important events. Embodying the spirit of East High, our newspaper is a record of student accomplishments, activities and opinions.

Dear East High,

Last June, we were awarded the privilege and responsibility of creating East High's yearbook for 1964. Few of us realized, then, how much effort would be involved, but we were determined to create a yearbook that we could all be proud of. This Orient is the visual record of our senior year at East. If it serves no other purpose than to bring back fond memories, it will have succeeded as a yearbook.

We have had to select a theme, plan layouts, take pictures and complete innumerable other tasks. The staffs had to be coordinated and deadlines met. For several months we have written, rewritten, struggled and complained, striving to publish the best possible yearbook. It was great fun, but it is with a sigh a relief that we present to you the Orient for 1964.

MOSAIC ADVISOR AND EDITOR—Miss Claus, Thomas Cosad.

MOSAIC EDITORS—Seated: Tom Cosad, Claire Howell, Doris Wirschem, Donna McAvoy, Betty Johnson. Standing: Miss Claus, Janet McCullough, Laura Rickmers, Anne Wallace, Ray DeMallie, Gloria Surace, Carol Cashion.

East High's newest and most creative student publication, the Mosaic, made its initial appearance this spring. For many years East has lacked a publication in which students could present their original literary and artistic expressions for others to enjoy. Through the efforts of the advisor, Miss Claus, the editor, Tom Cosad, and an excellent staff, our literary magazine has been made possible.

Many problems, unique to the first year of any publication, had to be solved. The magazine had no title, format or prospective contributors. These questions were soon settled, however, and the staff was able to proceed with the work of actually compiling a literary magazine. Submitted articles were edited and revised several times prior to publication, and illustrations were drawn for many of them. Finally layouts were made, and the Mosaic went to press.

The initiative, creativity and hard work which went into the Mosaic are evident. The Orient congratulates the many editors and contributors, and wishes the literary magazine continued success.

"Who the heck was Mosaic anyway?"

Mixing Fun and Knowledge

In the bandroom, the library, the forum room, and in a dozen class rooms throughout the school, East High students regularly gather for club meetings. Whatever a student's personal interests may be, he can find a club that will enrich them. In any club he joins, he will find creative activity to enhance his education and give him practical experience in working with others.

A great many of East's clubs are geared to the enrichment of academic subjects taught during the day. Through such means as guest speakers, the History Forum, the foreign language clubs and the Science Research Club explore material not covered in the classrooms. Often they undertake discussions of perplexing problems or experiment with special projects.

Several clubs have more specialized interests. The members of East High's fine choirs, bands and orchestras share the common desire to develop their talents of musical expression. Still other clubs, like the chess club, meet merely to have a good time. Others base their activity on a future career in health or teaching. Several clubs are service organizations which perform important tasks. Hall monitors, library aides, and stage hands, for example, devote their time and energy to making East High a better school. Their efforts contribute to the school and they, themselves, benefit from a growth of responsibility and leadership.

NEVER BEFORE HAS IT BEEN SO NECESSARY TO KNOW HOW TO GET A JOB!

A great change is coming over America and its employment opportunities—or lack of them.

Of course, anyone's "first job" is to get the basic education. Congratulations to those who get this well done.

NOW, HOW ABOUT THE NEXT STEP?

Career opportunities in Rochester, with its many and diverse industries, commercial organizations and professions, should interest almost any student. Most Rochester companies are recognized for their high standards and advanced technology. It follows that standards for employment are too high—and a good education tops the list.

Now, here is an important angle to think about: An employer knows what kind of people he is looking for. The student ready for a career, therefore, ought to have an equally good idea of what he or she is looking for. Consulting with parents, counselors, friends, and with employers themselves will reveal what kind of positions are available in what kind of organizations. How do education, experience, and personal characteristics measure up to a given employer's requirements and standards?

An accurate appraisal of this question is the key to anyone's career. There is no door it cannot unlock—when the key fits!

During our years at East High each of us has helped others and learned from others in return. The influences we have exerted, like ripples in water, have altered each other's courses. Now we leave East High School to enter a larger world where our actions will be felt on a wider scale. With the maturity we have gained through experience, our influences will be richer and more meaningful.

Nick
Pass, Geometry you Strike, and get in a couple of my classes next year, so we can break it up a little,
Buenos Suerte, and all that jazz ∇AR.

Nick,

The Cat and the Dog went down to the pause. Kidding aside. You've helped me a lot. You let me borrow answers in Geometry and everything. Stay as nice as you are and I know I won't miss you next year. Stay good.

Love Lori Malik
